Yanks Less Than Mile From Cherbourg As Defenses Crumble

The War Today...

HITLER, awakened from the last of his great dreams, must wish he could have remained asleep.

The new Russian offensive marks the end of his last hope for divisions among the Allies which would prevent their full military co-operation. That the drive had been fully expected detracts little.

The two great jaws of the vice in which the Fuehrer now finds himself cannot but remind us of the situation just four years ago, when France had fallen in one of history's greatest military debacles. Hitler stood on the shores of the English channel. He assembled an invasion fleet, suffered tremendous losses before he could get it under way and, overconfident in his land army, decided to take another tack.

He would secure his flanks in southeastern Europe and whip Russia. Then, with no threat at his back, he would be able to mass everything against Britain.

Right then and there he opened the two-front war which was to prove his downfall. In sight of Moscow, in the fall of 1941, his legions faltered and the war was decided. Later, when he entered Stalingrad, there was no Allied fear of the ultimate outcome. The Russians had shown what they could do.

Today two great screws are pinning Hitler to the pillory. Not even he can feel the slightest hope of escape. It's merely a question of how many Germans he and his high command are willing to see killed before the end, of how many Germans are willing to be killed.

Even the possibility that Hitler can retire to his inner fortress for any extended defense of Germany seems remote now. Hitler still has some good fighting men, but the varied types of prisoners taken by the Allies indicate that his army is shot through with weakness. Even good men can only die when flanked by malcontents, either disaffected Germans or sullen conscripts from occupied territory. And such justice it will be if we come to see the great German army sliced into befuddled chunks, fleeing through the fields of France and Poland as they caused their victims to flee in 1940.

Enjoying festivities at a Marine Corps Women's Reserve battalion dance at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C., are Pfc. Sally Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Moore, 361 N. Ellsworth ave., and Pfc. James T. Lynch of Atco, N. J.

While the two Marine M.P.s seem to be having a good time, they are taking no chances—they carry their big sticks even at a social gathering.

The Salem girl is attached to the Women's Reserve Guard battalion at the big Marine Corps training center.

GAIN GROUND AFTER SEVERE BOMBARDMENT

Americans All But Reach Sea on Both Sides of Besieged Port

(By United Press)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 24.—U. S. doughboys smashing yard-by-yard deep into the powerful outer shell of the Cherbourg line drove this morning within 2,000 yards—little more than a mile—of the port on the south, and "enemy defenses showed signs of crumbling," a field dispatch declared.

An American spearhead punctured the stubborn, interlaced Nazi pillbox defenses southeast of Ozeville, the fortress just southwest of Cherbourg, after a pulverizing air and artillery bombardment. Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead said in a dispatch written at 9:15 a. m. today (3:15 a. m. E.W.T.).

Headquarters said the doughboys fought forward slowly and had all but reached the sea on both sides of the besieged port in hand-to-hand struggle with Germans resisting fanatically. The assault troops are battling "within sight of the docks," Supreme headquarters said.

Whitehead wrote that 1,200 prisoners have been taken in the last 24 hours, and that the Cherbourg line had become a "death trap" for hundreds of Nazis who refused an Allied ultimatum to surrender and were forced to fight by German officers holding guns at their backs.

Fighting Is Bitter

In bitter battle, the Americans have blasted a wedge deep into the German line, and "Cherbourg is doomed as an enemy stronghold," he added.

On the eastern wing of the Normandy beachhead Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery lashed out with his first swift attack to break the German hold on that sector and capture Ste. Honore La Chardonnette, four miles northeast of Caen.

A field dispatch said an American breakthrough was made between Mont Du Roc and Ozeville. Fortified Mont Du Roc is two and a half miles southwest of Cherbourg's city limits near Nouainville where rises one of the three peaks dominating the port. Ozeville is a fortress site two miles east of Nouainville.

Before this breakthrough other American forces captured by storm a fortified high point at Tourlaine.

IN CHICAGO FOR CONVENTION

GOVERNOR JOHN BRICKER of Ohio, one of the Republican contenders for the presidential nomination, is greeted in Chicago by an enthusiastic crowd as he arrived to attend his party's convention next week. With him are his wife and son, Jack.

G. O. P. Vice Presidential Job Appears To Be Going Begging

CHICAGO, June 24.—The Republican vice presidential nomination appears today to be going temporarily begging with two of the most discussed possibilities—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio and Gov. Earl Warren of California—maintaining steadfastly that they are not considering or expecting it.

So strong had become the pre-convention hotel lobby gossip to the effect that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York has the inside track for the presidential nomination that knots of delegates spent much of their time discussing the lack of a hot vice presidential contest.

Warren will not arrive until Sunday to testify in what took on the appearance of a contest among those who are certain that he will not—accept the second place designation if it is offered to him.

Lew Wentz of Oklahoma, both national committee members, thought no man could refuse to accept his party's call for the vice presidency—which Warren has shunned by telling California delegates not to vote for him for any federal office.

On the other side of the aisle, intimates of Bricker said he had refused even to discuss the possibility of taking second place supporting his public assertion that he was not interested and did not believe it ever would be offered to him.

Other vice presidential possibilities include Lieut. Commr. Harold E. Stassen, whose friends say he wouldn't have it; Rep. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) and Gov. Simeon Willis of Kentucky.

Alf Landon, who once ran for president himself, said there was a great deal of talk about "rewarding" Bricker with the vice presidency nomination—if he fails to get the first place designation his friends still think will come to him—for the strenuous campaign efforts the Ohio governor has made.

Pennsylvania, West Virginia Areas Suffer

(By Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, June 24.—The death toll of a tornado-like storm that ripped across southwestern Pennsylvania and north-central West Virginia last night soared to 126 today as rescue workers searched ruins of a dozen communities for bodies of more victims.

West Virginia reported 95 dead, Pennsylvania 31.

Skirting the southern rim of the city of Pittsburgh the wind lashed with great fury into the suburbs of McKeesport, Pa., a city of nearly 60,000, then cut a swath southward 100 miles to Shinnston, W. Va.

In its wake, hundreds were left homeless as whole blocks in some communities were leveled, hospitals were filled with hundreds of injured persons and power and communications lines were blown down.

The Red Cross immediately sent disaster relief crews into the stricken areas with blood plasma, medical supplies, food and cots for the injured and homeless.

Civilian defense organizations and military police and army medical corps units from Pittsburgh and other cities worked side by side with local police, fire and relief agencies.

Devastation was terrific. Striking at nightfall, the storm trapped many families in their homes. Through the night, rescue workers dug by the light of flashlight and torch to extricate the bodies of the dead and injured from the ruins.

A survey in West Virginia showed more than a score of people reported missing and indicated the death list might exceed 100 in the mountain state alone. Reports were slow coming in from isolated communities, paralyzed by failure of facilities and with highway arteries clogged with trees and debris.

The storm apparently hit hard at a point where it crossed the state line, soldiers going on duty at a point where it crossed the state line, soldiers going on duty at a point where it crossed the state line.

High winds which swept southern Ohio yesterday, at 3 p. m., reaching their intensity near Ravensburg, seemed to miss Salem although some damage was reported locally and severe damage was reported to light and telephone services in the Leetonia, Columbiana, East Palestine and New Springfield areas.

One death was recorded in the district. Robert R. Henderson, 34, of Sebring, was killed at Westville lake when lightning struck a tree under which he had taken shelter from the storm.

State patrolmen reported the vicinity around Yale and Deerfield truck heavily by the wind and said several houses were completely demolished by the tornado-like gale. The storm is said to have struck an area five miles long and one-half mile wide there.

Locally, the worst damage seemed to be to trees whose branches were broken by the wind. Hail caused under damage west of Salem, and broke windows in several residences.

Phone, Power Lines Down

Telephone officials said their repair crews were kept busy most of the night in the area southeast of Sebring.

Lightning Victim's Funeral On Monday

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday at the Moorman funeral home in Sebring for Robert Russell Henderson, 34, apprentice machinist for the Alliance Machine Co., who was killed by lightning at Westville lake during the severe storm last night.

Burial will be in the Lisbon cemetery. Friends may call at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Henderson, with whom he made his home, at 414 E. Ohio ave. Sebring, from 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

Henderson went to the lake to fish early yesterday evening. His body was found under a tree at the lower end of the lake by Miss Anna McDaniel, who lives one-half mile from that end of the lake. Miss McDaniel had seen Henderson leave his car there and when he didn't return an hour after the storm she went to look for him.

Sheriff's deputies who investigated said that Henderson apparently took shelter under tree when the storm began. He was struck about 6:30 p. m. by lightning which hit the tree about four feet above his head. He was instantly killed, officers said.

Coroner Arnold Devan has been called.

Recently honorably discharged after more than a year's service in the army, Henderson had been a resident of the vicinity for 25 years. He was born in Lisbon April 14, 1910. He was a member of the Sebring Church of Christ.

Besides his parents he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Helen Wilson of Akron and Mrs. Verna Anthony, Youngstown, and a brother, Harry Henderson of Sebring.

JAP CARRIER IS PROBABLY SUNK

Hit by Three U. S. Torpedoes; Guam Raided; Big Saipan Battle Near

(By Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, June 24.—A new 28,000-ton Japanese aircraft carrier was believed today to be at the bottom of the Philippines sea—latest reported addition to the disaster which beset Nippon's navy when it hesitantly tried to stay the impending doom of Saipan's garrison.

An American submarine rammed three torpedoes into the vitals of the costly shokaku class flat-top Sunday and the navy, disclosing the action last night, conservatively stated: "The Japanese carrier is regarded as probably sunk."

Sunday was the day Jap carriers looted a costly, long distance attack on the U. S. invasion fleet at Saipan.

The Navy already had announced that American carrier planes, striking from the sea, sank four enemy ships, including a 19,000-ton carrier, and damaged 10 other ships, including a battleship, two 19,000-ton carriers, a light carrier and a cruiser. Last night's communiqué added a fifth ship, a destroyer, to the carrier and three tankers previously listed as definitely sunk.

JAPS EXHIBIT B-29, TOKYO RADIO SAYS

(By Associated Press)

A Domei broadcast from Tokyo today said the "wreckage of the enemy's vaunted superfortress which fell victim to our interception fire" in the raid on northern Kyushu June 15 had been put on exhibition at Annatsuya department store.

"Parts exhibited" included bulletproof glass, a double-barreled cannon, shells and cartridges, Domei reported.

The Japanese originally claimed to have shot down seven of the planes, but later acknowledged that they had succeeded in bringing down only one. They later reported salvage operations off Kyushu in an effort to find three or four more.

The War department announced one of the bombers was lost over the target, another is missing and two more failed to get back to their bases because of accidents.

Army Private Prefers To Let Japs Have Island

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, June 16.—Delayed—On the eve of the assault upon this island, a medical officer called members of a Marine artillery unit together and warned them:

"In the surf they must beware of sharks, barracuda, sea snakes, anemones, razor-sharp coral, polluted waters, poison fish and, of all things, giant clams capable of snapping on a man like a bear trap."

Ashore, the men must take precautions against leprosy, typhus, filariasis, yaws, typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, dengue fever, dysentery, an assortment of skin and eye infections, saw grass or sabre grass, a wide variety of insects, snakes and giant lizards.

At the conclusion of his lecture, the doctor asked if there were any questions. A private raised his hand.

"Yes?" queried the doctor.

"Sir," said the private, "why don't we let the Japs have the island?"

Missing In Italy

ALLIANCE, June 24.—Pvt. John J. Vitale, 26, and infantryman in Italy, was reported by the War department today to be missing in action since May 29. Before entering the service on Sept. 17, 1943, he was a market manager here. His wife, Sara, lives here.

SANDWICHES FRENCH FRIES TO TAKE OUT HOME MADE PIES—BAKED GOODS—ICE CREAM PROD. THE CORNER

WASHINGTON, June 24.—OPA Administrator Chester Bowles hinted today that most meats may remain ration-free through July.

"There will be a few changes next month, but nothing drastic," he told a reporter.

He did not elaborate, explaining that official announcement of July ration point values is scheduled for the latter part of next week. The only meats now rationed are beef steaks and roasts.

While Bowles did not say so, the changes planned may return point values to some of the more choice cuts of other kinds of meat.

Central Front Springs to Life; Advance Toward Latvian Border

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW, June 24.—The Red army, in a new central front offensive that was an integral part of Allied grand strategy, rolled westward in spectacular fashion today and reached points only 75 miles from the Latvian border.

The Russians battled swollen streams and considerable mud northwest of Vitebsk, where they pushed upon Polotsk 32 miles away.

Reports from the Finnish front were that the new offensive had retracted nothing from the drive toward Helsinki and the liberation of the Leningrad-Murmansk railway. Progress was reported in all the fighting areas, with the Finns apparently still unable to hold the weight of Russian armor and infantry.

Southeast of Vitebsk on the central front where the Russians have been across the highway from Vitebsk to the German-held fortress of Orsha, the Red army surged forward and cut the railway which parallels the highway. It moved in the general direction of Minsk. Operations in this sector across

CHOICE OF THE CONVENTION

In a few more days, another Republican national convention will be political history. It is difficult to realize the time has come so soon. It is no disparagement of the part which politics plays in the nation's war experience to admit that its events are overshadowed.

The choice of the convention for the party's presidential nominee never was attended with circumstances of greater importance than it is this year. The fact is not yet being discussed freely, due to hesitancy to face it in wartime, but the Republican presidential nominee represents the only possibility of closely coordinated and purposeful federal administration during the next four years.

The Roosevelt administration has reached that precarious point of political experience which finds its elements of strength divided. It has found not only a strong opposition in the country and a reflection of that opposition in the steadily increasing strength of the Republican party, but has developed opposition within itself.

It, as seems daily more probable, President Roosevelt decides to run for reelection and, after consultation with himself, decides to run Mr. Wallace again as his vice presidential candidate, the alternative will lie between a tired government of divided factions and a fresh government united by its efforts to win a popular mandate.

With the difference that the war has diverted attention from its weaknesses as a majority party, the Democratic party today is in the same circumstances as those which destroyed confidence in the Republican party in 1932. It cannot demonstrate ability to propose and carry through a program because of its own internal disintegration. It is divided within itself over a range of viewpoints stretching from the American Communists who have taken possession of its left wing to the Jeffersonians huddled uncomfortably in a lean-to somewhere on the fringes of its right wing.

The choice of the Republican convention this week in Chicago may not be the next chief executive of the United States, but unless he is—barring developments unforeseen now—the United States will face four years of administrative floundering by a government which cannot even remain in power.

The convention opens, the apparent choice of Governor Bricker of Ohio and Gov. Dewey of New York. There are several other possibilities who would become important in case the convention deadlocked. The party is fortunate in having available many able men to choose from; it is one of those times when problems have produced men capable of dealing with them. The Republicans can name strong nominees for both places on the ticket and still have available a surplus of strong leadership to back them up in the job they ultimately will have to take over as the Democratic party divides and destroys itself.

RETALIATION

It must be as evident to German experts in terror as it is to the English on the receiving end that their newest device is ideally suited to retaliation. Flying bombs can fly both ways; the Germans have no monopoly on them.

The Germans should have a fair working knowledge of the disadvantages of retaliation by this time—especially retaliation that comes through the air. It was their bright idea in World War I to unnerve the British with bombs dropped from airships hovering above the clouds, and they thereupon invented blind bombing. When airships no longer were feasible, the Germans turned to bombing planes and were using them on an impressive scale by the end of the war.

In this war they were prepared in advance with greatly improved bombers which they used with savage effectiveness up to the point where it was plain they had overestimated the potency of their terrorism again. In the meantime, the Allies had developed bigger and better bombers to make up for lost time and no one doubts for an instant that bigger and better flying bombs can be developed by the Allies, too, if there is anything to be gained thereby. The grim and ghastly process of proving to Germans that willingness to spill blood by any means that comes to hand is no guarantee of victory is limited only by their ability to think up new weapons to be turned against them.

PRE-PEARL HARBOR CONFIDENCE

Public and professional confidence in the navy now has returned to its pre-Pearl Harbor proportions—but this time it is backed up with the necessary where-withal.

The United States has learned about Japan's sea power and its air power the hard way. It has learned that the Japanese can fly, shoot and fight heroically. It has learned that their equipment is first-rate.

No American now is so innocent as to believe Japan can be beaten in three days, three weeks, or three months, though many thought so on Dec. 6, 1941. Yet, confidence in the navy, which is destined to bear the brunt of the war against Japan, is greater than ever before. For two and a half years the nation has been at work, to overcome the weaknesses which Pearl Harbor and the events that followed it revealed.

The navy is ready, and the people are ready for a showdown with Japan. They thought it was scheduled this week; the clash was not conclusive, however. It may come next week, or it may be delayed indefinitely, but eventually it must happen. There is no greater tribute to the work that has been put into the war than the confidence with which the event is awaited.

If it be possible, as much as lieh in you, live peacefully with all men.—Romans 12:18.
In peace there's nothing so becomes a man
As modest stillness and humility.—Shakespeare.

THE STARS SAY:

For Sunday, June 25

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most propitious one for all manner of serious, studious and spiritual activities, having as objective the stabilizing of all aspirations and ambitions of worth and endurance. This should apply to business and personal interests, in which the individual merit, responsibility and fidelity of advanced ideals should meet approbation from influential sources. Social, artistic and intellectual pursuits are favored. Personal magnetism is a factor.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which all serious ambitions and earnest endeavors should reach safe and sound foundations, in which elders, superiors and those in high places may be generously responsive. The personal element is strong and may be judiciously exercised for enduring and responsible results. Business, investments, labor, as well as all social, domestic and affectional affiliations are recompensed generously according to their worth. And there may be much pleasure along the way, but refrain from overdoing and extravagance.

A child born on this day may be endowed with many sterling characteristics and dependable skills and talents, winning the support of those in power, with enduring success and happiness.

For Monday, June 26

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of sudden and quite unlooked-for events, of a devastating and disruptive influence of far reaching importance in both the business and private relations. There may be defeating upsets but by a quick insight into conditions, with novel, original and ingenious plans adversities may be offset. Face issues with cleverness, and sagacity. Safeguard romantic ties.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by turmoil, uprooting or disrupting and devastating events, which demand the utmost intuition, sagacity and ingenuity to circumvent. Novelty, originality and daring may be the safest weapons for such onslaught, to result in happy denouements of surprise and personal gratification. Be prudent in all relations lest there be estrangements or disruption.

Thyroid Gland Acts as Body Regulator

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
A CORRESPONDENT writes: "Would it be possible for you to give me some references to literature on the functioning of the thyroid gland? I have been to several commercial libraries and can find only cursory references to its function."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

function. The thing I am interested in is just how a few B.M.R. (basal metabolism rate) affect the body and mind. Of course, I know some of the more obvious symptoms, such as excessive weight, dry skin, swelling of extremities, but perhaps there are others. How low does the B.M.R. have to be before such symptoms can be noticed?"

To answer the first question I think a book called Endocrinology, by R. G. Hoskins, published by W. W. Norton & Company, New York 1941, will give a good deal of information on these topics which ten by intention for the layman not the physician, but is so clear and authoritative that many physicians use it as a text. More detailed works are "Meigs—The Thyroid Gland, and Basal Metabolism."

General Principles Involved
I fear, however, that what my correspondent is seeking is a final and dogmatic answer to questions that cannot be answered by any physiologist quite certainly in the present state of our knowledge. All I can do is to present the general principles involved and let him, as I do and as all physicians do, deduce his speculations for himself.

The thyroid gland is in normal individuals a very actively functioning organ from birth to old age. It is the central regulator and equilibrating governor of our machine. It maintains the rate of metabolism in every cell, the nutritional exchange, the summation of oxygen—in short, the nutritional exchange, the consumption of oxygen—in short the rate, the flux, the stream of living. Whenever it lets down in its function the body to the extent and degree of the loss of function becomes sluggish and gross.

Such lowering of function accounts for the lassitude, the lack of ambition, the feeling of lack of warmth, the mental slowness that occurs in convalescence from an illness, a surgical operation, a pregnancy or to some extent for the reduced physical and mental activities of old age.

On the contrary when some excitement or abnormal stimulus excites the excess secretion from the thyroid causes abnormally rapid response and even trembling in muscles, nervousness, rapidity of thought and action, sweating and warmth of the skin and if kept up long enough loss of weight. Soldiers come out of battle, business men out of stock market crises in this condition.

Thyroid Fluctuations.
Like any other organ the thyroid gland experiences fluctuations of activity of function and such states as I have mentioned—from lethargy to intensity—are experienced by all of us and can be blamed when no discernible event or experience can be evoked to account for them, on the natural ebb and flow of thyroid secretion.

The basal metabolic rate (B.M.R.) is a method of measuring the rate of nutritional exchange and by implication the activity of secretion of the thyroid gland. It is really a measurement of the rate of consumption of oxygen. In practice it is done by having the subject breathe in and out of a tank containing oxygen and over a period of several minutes measuring the amount of oxygen consumed. For every animal from a mouse to an elephant this rate of oxygen consumption is normally very constant in relation to its body surface (not weight or height, although these enter into the calculations). The normal basal metabolism is reported for convenience as zero. A variation of plus twenty or minus twenty is regarded as within the limits of normal. Anything above or below that should account for symptoms of lethargy or excitement.

Older Soldiers to Return Home, Mothers Are Told

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, June 24.—Veterans of this world war will return to their families appearing five to ten years older than when they left for the armed forces, predicts Roy E. Johnson, chief of the American Red Cross area services to the armed forces.

"I think we should prepare ourselves to find our men from five to ten years older—even those who have not been wounded," Johnson told approximately 500 delegates to the third annual convention of the Red Cross of America, Inc., which will open here today.

Johnson described battle conditions and morale as "excellent," and urged the mothers "not to relax in your work for an instant, but to do your utmost here on the home front to assure our boys complete victory."

Deadline Is Set

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Directors of the Ohio High School Athletic association have set July 8 as a deadline for filing of applications for the position of commissioner, left vacant by the recent death of H. R. Townsend.

ville, a mile east of Cherbourg, another of the peaks.

Presumably these two breakthroughs were being exploited in bitter fighting because the Supreme command's communique No. 37 noted this morning that "we are making steady progress and now are within a short distance of the north coast on both sides of the fortress."

Other Defenses Crumble
(Berlin radio this morning said after several hours of heavy fighting the Americans had broken into the outer defense zone in the south and southeast, but asserted they were stopped there. It declared "no less than eight infantry and two tank divisions" had been thrown into the assault.

"The German communique today acknowledged that Americans had captured a number of strong points and made further progress toward Cherbourg. Local attacks were repulsed elsewhere in Normandy, and Nazi coastal batteries "scattered" an Allied landing unit east of the Orne river, the high command added, with naval units sinking a 3,000-ton Allied landing vessel and a destroyer.

A field dispatch from the British sector declared the German command was moving up reinforcements from deep within France and even drawing on strategic reserves in Germany itself "to replace forces thrown into the beach-head area."

Clear, calm weather sped the flow of power into Normandy today from hundreds of landing craft, and sky-trains of Allied bombers roared over France.

The roaring attack on Cherbourg went into its third straight day, with progress being measured in bloody feet from pill box to pill box against elements of four Nazi divisions.

SUMMER PLAY CLOTHES ARE SLIM, SLEEK, CAREFREE

Left, white rayon crepe shirt, check shorts; center, linen textured spun rayon dress; right, printed play suit.

This summer's play clothes are slim, sleek, and carefree. Skirts are narrow, but built for action. Shorts are flared or pleated below nicely fitted hip yokes. The shorts suit shown left consists of a classic shirt of white rayon crepe and well-tailored shorts in red, black and white checked rayon taffeta. Linen textured spun rayon in print and plain fabric makes the frock, center. It has a separate skirt in solid aqua with a waistband corsage of flowers cut from the multi-color morning glory print of the bodice. The back is cut low for sun-bathing. The softly styled playsuit, right, has a drawstring belt band for a neat waistline, and the suit is made of white rayon jersey printed with fruit and flowers in bright reds and greens. Unpressed pleats give fullness to the front of the shorts. (International)

TORNADO

There were 167 patients in hospitals at Fairmont and Clarksburg, W. Va., alone, in addition to others in hospitals at Mannington, Philippi, Elkins and Grafton.

The storm was described by A. D. Johnson of McKeesport as a "white, whirlwind shape" that came roaring across the city, then leaped the Youngbush river and traveled south.

Saw at least a dozen houses blown right off their foundations," Johnson said. It was estimated at least 100 homes in the McKeesport area were demolished completely and hundreds more unroofed or damaged.

Don Fetter, Monongahela, W. Va., power company manager, said: "Struck at 8:51 P. M."

"It was a regular Kansas twister, funnel-shaped with limbs and sticks floating around in its middle. It was a greasy green color and lazy looking. The time was 8:51 p. m. That was verified later because a lot of clocks stopped at that time."

Hardest hit Pennsylvania communities outside the Pittsburgh area were the mining towns of Clarksburg and Chartiers in Greene county, approximately 40 miles south of here.

Virtually every house in Chartiers, visited only two weeks ago by a mine explosion and fire that killed six men, was leveled. There were eight known dead there and between 40 and 50 homes destroyed.

"The destruction in Chartiers is almost unbelievable," said Stanley Granger, collector of internal revenue at Pittsburgh who lives in nearby Waynesburg. He added: "The entire town appears to have been leveled."

More than 400 were believed injured in Shinnston, W. Va., and three surrounding counties and ambulance drivers, frantically trying to get over blocked roads up Shinn's run, near Shinnston, said they had reports of bodies along the roads.

Upon orders of Gov. Matthew M. Neely, four companies of West Virginia state guardsmen went into the devastated area.

Power was supplied to the stricken area by emergency service from Parkersburg but nearby Clarksburg, West Virginia's fourth largest city, had no power until well into the morning.

Hospitals Are Filled

Corridors of one of Clarksburg's hospitals were filled with injured sent there after emergency treatment at Shinnston. Scores also were sent to Fairmont, 15 miles north. The Shinnston Methodist church was set up as an emergency aid station.

Meanwhile, a twister struck the little Maryland eastern shore town of Cambridge last night, injuring an estimated 35 persons and flattening several blocks of homes. A Negro high school was cut virtually in half and two Phillips Packing Co. warehouses were razed.

"CALAMITY TOWN" by ELLERY-QUEEN

©1943 by LITTLE BROWN & CO., DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

SYNOPSIS

Ellery Queen, author-detective, arrived incognito in Wrightsville, which is humming with war industries. Under the name, "Ellery Smith," he tried to rent a furnished house through J. C. Pettigrew, real estate man. "J. C." says that war-time housing makes that almost impossible, but he does mention one possibility. "If you're not superstitious," Enroute to what local gossip calls "Calamity House," Pettigrew describes its history: How John F. Wright, local banker, and his wife, Hermione, built it for the honeymoon home of their daughter, Nora, whose fiancé James Haigh, disappeared the day before the wedding. Her sister, Lola, had eloped with an actor but soon returned, divorced. The youngest Wright girl, Patricia, is "going steady" with Carter Bradford, County Prosecutor. "J. C." confides that the sudden death of a potential buyer of that honeymoon house adds to its jinx legend.

CHAPTER THREE

"Doc Willoughby said it was heart failure. But that's not what the town said. The town said it was the house. First Jim ran away, then a buyer dropped dead. And to make it worse, some smart-aleck reporter on Frank Lloyd's Record wrote up Hunter's death and he called the house 'Calamity House' in his yarn. Frank fired him. Frank's friendly with the Wrights."

"Of all the nonsense!" snapped Mr. Queen.

"Just the same, nobody'd buy," muttered J. C. "John offered to rent. Nobody'd rent. Too unlucky, people said. Still want to rent, Mr. Smith?"

"Yes, indeed."

So J. C. started his car again. "Family seems ill-fated," observed Ellery. "One daughter running off and another's life blasted by a love affair. Is the youngest daughter normal?"

"Patricia?" J. C. beamed. "Prettiest, smartest filly in town next to my Carmel! Pat's going steady with Carter Bradford. Cart's our new County Prosecutor.... Here we are!"

The real-estate man steered his coupe into the driveway of a Colonial-style house sung into the hillside far off the road. There was a small white frame house close by the large one, its windows shuttered. As they neared the wide Wright porch, Mr. Queen kept looking at the blind and empty little house he intended to rent.

Then J. C. rang the bell and old Ludie opened the front door.

"I'll tell Mr. John you're callin'," sniffed Ludie, as she stalked away, her apron standing to each side of her like a Dutch cap.

"Guess Ludie knows we're here to rent Calamity House," grinned Mr. Pettigrew.

"Why should that make her look at me as if I were a Nazi Gauleiter?" asked Mr. Queen.

"I expect Ludie doesn't think it proper for folks like the John F. Wrights to be renting their house. Sometimes I don't know who's got more pride in the family name, Ludie or Hermie!"

Mr. Queen took inventory: Lived in. There were a few aged mahogany pieces of distinction, and a beautiful fireplace of Italian marble. And at least two of the paintings had merit.

J. C. noticed his interest. "Hermie picked out all the pictures herself. Knows a lot about art. Hermie does—Here she is now. And John."

Ellery rose. He had expected to meet a robust, severe-faced female; instead, he saw Hermie. Hermie, always fooled strangers that way; she's so tiny and motherly and sweet-looking.

John Fowler Wright was a delicate little man with a brown country-club face. Ellery liked him at sight. He was carrying a stamp album with practiced care.

"John, this is Mr. Ellery Smith. He's looking to rent a furnished house," said J. C. nervously. "Mr. Wright, Mrs. Wright, Mr. Smith. A-hrm!" He added as they bowed, "Of course, I thought right off of that beautiful little six-roomer you built next door, John—"

"I don't at all like the idea," interposed Hermione in her coolest voice, "of renting, John. I can't imagine, Mr. Pettigrew—" "Maybe if you know who Mr. Smith is," put in J. C. quickly.

"J.C." introduced "the famous author" to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wright.

Hermie looked startled. John F. hunched forward in his wing chair near the fireplace.

"Well?" demanded Hermie. "Who is he?"

"Mr. Smith," said J. C., throwing it away, "is Ellery Smith, the famous author."

"Famous author!" gasped Hermie. "Well, I'm sure you'll like our dream house. I decorated it with my own hands. Do you ever lecture? Our Women's Club—"

"Good golfing hereabouts, too," said John F. "How long would you want to rent, Mr. Smith?"

"I'm sure Mr. Smith is going to like Wrightsville so well he'll stay on and on," interrupted Hermie. Do have some of Ludie's punch, Mr. Smith—"

"Thing is," remarked John F. frowning, "the way Wrightsville's shooting up, I'll probably be able to sell pretty soon—"

"That's easy, John!" said J. C. "We can write in the lease that in case a buyer comes along Mr. Smith is to vacate pending reasonable notice—"

"Business, business!" pouted Hermie gaily. "What Mr. Smith wants is to see the house. Mr. Pettigrew, you stay here and keep John and his poky old stamps company, Mr. Smith?"

Hermie held on to Ellery's arm all the way from the big house to the little house, as though she were afraid he'd fly away if she let go.

Her fingers, from the cellar to peaked attic, exhibited the chintzy master bedroom, extolled the beauties of the living room with its maple pieces and art-filled niches and hooked rugs and half-empty book-shelves.....

"Yes, yes," agreed Ellery feebly. "Very nice, Mrs. Wright."

"Of course, I'll see you get a housekeeper," said Hermie happily. "Oh, dear! Where will you do your work? We could fix over the second bedroom upstairs into a study. You must have a study for your work, Mr. Smith."

Ellery declared he was sure he'd manage handsomely.

"Then you do like our little house? I'm so glad!" Hermie lowered her voice. "You're in Wrightsville incognito, of course?"

"Such an impressive word, Mrs. Wright...."

"Then, except for a few of our closest friends, I'll make sure nobody knows who you are," beamed Hermie. "What kind of work are you planning, Mr. Smith?"

"A novel," answered Ellery faintly. "A novel laid in a typical small city, Mrs. Wright."

"Then you're here to get color! How apt! You chose our own dear Wrightsville! You must meet my daughter Patricia immediately, Mr. Smith. She's the cleverest child."

"I'm sure Pat will be a great help to you in getting to know Wrightsville...."

Two hours later Mr. Ellery Queen was signing the incognito name "Ellery Smith" to a lease whereunder he agreed to rent Number 430 Hill Drive, furnished, for a period of six months, three months' rental paid in advance, one month's vacating notice to be given by the lessor in event of a sale, at the rental of $75 per month.

"The truth is, Mr. Smith," confided J. C. as they left the Wright house, "I kind of held my breath there for a minute."

in the 5TH War Loan Drive!

Pray for them, America.

Pray for their safety in this fateful hour. Pray for Victory in their bitter, bloody fight for freedom. Pray for their return to us as soon as may be.

A long, hard road lies ahead. There will be many a desperate, heart-breaking day before they reach the end of that road. And many a white cross will mark its course through the tortured battlefields of Europe.

Would that we could do something to help our gallant fighting men in their hour of need! Would that we could do something to express the gratitude in our hearts for the sacrifices they are making for us.

Do something? We can do something. Each and every one of us, right now, can join the fight by purchasing extra War Bonds during the 5th War Loan. Let us support this drive as we have never done before. Let us show our loved ones over there that we are with them heart and soul. Let them know that we are backing them to the limit—to our last dollar.

Yes, to our last dollar. No matter what sacrifices we have to make, let us all invest in War Bonds now—more and more War Bonds—until we have poured out the might of America in overwhelming measure. Now, as never before, your country looks to you.

BASE PILFERING AIDS YANK CLIMB BACK INTO THIRD

George "Snuffy" Stirnweiss Leads Yanks In Victory Over Mackmen Friday

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
George (Snuffy) Stirnweiss, second baseman of the New York Yankees, not only has filled the shoes of Joe Gordon to everybody's satisfaction, but is stealing everything in sight with them.

The former North Carolina university athlete was responsible for all his team's runs, besides pilfering his 16th base in 18 attempts, as the Yankees defeated the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-1 yesterday.

This victory enabled the World Champions to climb back into a tie for third place with the Chicago White Sox.

Stirnweiss made three hits, including a double, drove in three runs and scored the other two. One of his tallies resulted from his steal in the third inning, and it was the 14th time he had scored by a steal.

Sigmund Jakucki hurled his second successive shutout against Detroit to give the league leading St. Louis Browns a 5-0 victory. Vernon Stephens knocked in three runs for the Browns with a trio of hits.

Cleveland climbed into a three-way tie for sixth place with Philadelphia and Washington by defeating the Chicago White Sox, 5-1.

The Senators dropped the Boston Red Sox to three games from first place by scoring an easy 7-1 triumph over Joe Cronin's men. Early Wynn registered his second straight win over the Sox in five days.

Ed Head, sore arm Dodger hurler, pitched his fourth victory of the season without a defeat when he held the Philadelphia Phillies to two hits in blanking them 2-0. The victory put Brooklyn into a third-place tie with the Cincinnati Reds.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh battled 14 innings to a 5-5 tie in a game called by curfew. Each team used five pitchers. Twenty players were used by the Cards and 18 by the Pirates. Marty Marion, besides making four hits, handled 15 chances at shortstop, without an error.

The Chicago Cubs handed the Reds their fourth straight defeat, scoring twice in the opening stanza to win 3-1.

The Giants and Braves were not scheduled.

Minerva P-40 Pilot In Chinese Sector Flies Almost Daily

(By Associated Press)
CHINESE EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Headquarters on Salween Front.—Lieut. John A. Larson, Jr., is tall and lean and slightly shaggy. He comes from Minerva, Ohio, and he looks like a fighter pilot, which is not surprising since he flies one of the P-40s of the 14th air force which have been supporting the Chinese infantry in the Salween offensive.

With his mates, Larson has been working hard. In three weeks he flew 18 or 20 missions, which is an average of almost one a day. He brushed it off by saying there were others in his squadron who had flown as many as 25 and 30. In a tone as if to excuse himself for personal remissness in this regard, he explained that his plane had been out of action because of an engine change.

Larson was happy to hear that the Chinese in the northern sectors, where many of his missions had gone, were pleased with their air support, and credited the dive-bombing and strafing by the P-40s with enabling them to take many of their toughest objectives. The fliers in the mountainous terrain west of the Salween rarely see anything stirring in the targets they hit, and can't even tell whether they've drawn ground fire until they get back to base and check on the presence or absence of bullet holes in their planes.

What ground fire they have drawn has been almost exclusively small arms, except over some spots where there have been bursts of 20-MM. Anti-aircraft fire.

Praise Soil Culture

NEW YORK — Postwar production by America's 5,000,000 farms may equal that of 6,000,000 farms if all growers adopt soil conservation practices which have increased farm yields by 20 per cent on farms now enrolled in the program, according to food experts. Soil culture, they reported, has enhanced the quality as well as quantity of fruits and vegetables.

YANKS IN ITALY START TREK TO NAZI PRISON CAMP

JUST RECEIVED IN THE U. The photo may comfort American mothers whose sons are reported missing in action. (International)

Township Officials Plan Columbus Session June 29

LISBON, June 23.—Final plans have been completed for the meeting in Columbus, June 29-30 of the state association of township trustees and clerks. Mayor James Garfield Steward of Cincinnati will speak to the conference on Thursday morning and Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland will take part in the afternoon session.

This will mark the 17th summer meeting of the State Association which was organized June 28, 1928. Addresses will be given by Walter Garrison, chief of the examining bureau, H. A. Thomson of Drexel, Pa., president of the national association, Col. W. R. Nelson of Millersburg, Ky., who will speak on juvenile problems, Dr. Charles Copeland Smith of Chicago, State President J. R. Thomas of Hayesville, State Secretary Charles P. Baker, Jr., of Painesville and Prof. Homer R. Gotterman of Capital University.

Rush Blood Plasma Into Stricken Areas by Plane

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Maj. John J. Hurley of Washington, operations officer at Lockbourne airbase, flew 150 units of blood plasma and sea cases of tetanus anti-toxin to storm-stricken Waynesburg, Pa., early today, landing his mercy ship on a narrow strip lighted by the headlights of hastily recruited automobiles.

He flew a two-engine training plane and was accompanied by Lt. William J. Ralston of New York and WAC Corp. Kathleen Garby, a dispatcher at the airbase.

Hurley said on his return that the narrow strip was set in a valley between 500-foot mountains and automobiles were called to light the field after the storm disrupted Waynesburg's electric current.

Salem, where minor and scattered service interruptions were caused by falling trees and severe hail.

Officials at the Ohio Edison Co. said their worst damage was recorded around New Springfield and Petersburg, where crews worked all night and most of the morning restoring power service.

Service Director Frank K. Wilson had numerous calls of tree limbs blown down.

Thousands of dollars worth of property damage were reported from Sandusky to Cleveland and southeast to the Pennsylvania border. Highway department crews were busy clearing roads of fallen trees, electric wires and debris.

The families of Otto Aberger and Arthur Davis received minor injuries as the high wind toppled barns and knocked houses off foundations southeast of Ravenna.

Greater Cleveland police and firemen were busy clearing streets of fallen tree limbs and electric wires. In Newburgh Heights, a suburb, Fire Chief Theodore Przybyski reported three high tension wires carrying 11,000 volts each snapped with an explosion that shook the village. In Elvira and Sandusky other wind damage was reported but no one was injured.

DEATHS

FRANK C. BOWMAN

COLUMBIANA, June 24.—Frank C. Bowman, 51, a sergeant in the Engineers corps during World war I, died at his home, 18 E. Salem st., at 9:30 p. m. Thursday of nephritis.

He was born at Broadway, Va. Sept. 19, 1893, the son of John and Mary Bowman, and was married at Clearfield, Pa., in 1919 to Nellie Jean Toner. He was a grocery salesman, coming here from Roysford, Pa., only a few months ago. Mr. Bowman served overseas with Co. A, 510th Engineers.

He was a member of the Lutheran church, a charter member of the American Legion, and belonged to the Modern Woodmen of America.

His survivors include his wife, two brothers, Shearer C. of Roysford, Pa., and Austin B. of Columbiana, and one sister, Mrs. Luther Steyer of Roysford, Pa.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at his home, in charge of Rev. C. J. Sutorius. Burial will be in the Columbiana cemetery.

Friends may call at the home Saturday evening.

REV. LANN R. WILLIAMSON
Rev. Lann R. Williamson, 77, Baptist minister here from 1913 to 1915, died June 5 at his home near Buffalo, N. Y., friends here have been advised. Funeral service was held at the Calvary Baptist church in Buffalo and burial was in St. John's cemetery.

Before his illness, Rev. Williamson was pastor in Newfield, N. Y. He leaves his wife, Ellen C. Williamson.

JACOB S. BRUBAKER
COLUMBIANA, June 24.—Jacob S. Brubaker, 74, of Centerville, died of pneumonia at 11 p. m. Friday at the Miami Valley hospital in Dayton.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Brubaker, he was born at Winterburn, Ont., Canada, June 13, 1870, but he lived in North Lima for a number of years before going to Centerville seven years ago.

He was married to Luella Heintzelman in 1894. She died in 1937.

Mr. Brubaker was a retired employee of the Sanitary Milk Co. of Youngstown, and a member of the Zion Hill church of the Brethren in North Lima.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. N. Garber of Centerville; three sons, Leonard H. and Myron J. of Columbiana, and Emerson J. of Erie, Pa.; 12 grandchildren; two brothers, Abraham of Wadsworth and Aaron of Mountain Home, Idaho, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Frye and Miss Elizabeth Brubaker of St. Jacobs, Ont.

Funeral service will be at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Warrick funeral home followed by a short service at 3 p. m. at the Zion Hill church. Burial will be at the Midway church cemetery.

JAP CARRIER

a city now under Yank artillery and warship shelling.

Tokyo radio reported 60 American carrier planes attacked Guam, southwest of Saipan, Friday and claimed 15 were shot down. It was west of Guam that the carriers of task force 58 darted Monday to launch planes against the fleeing Japanese fleet.

Tokyo radio, which earlier had told the homeland of the loss of carrier, spiced the Guam announcement with the totally unconfirmed report that Japanese planes "heavily damaged" two U. S. carriers off Saipan Friday. To date, the United States navy has reported superficial damage to two carriers and a battleship and the loss of 70 planes as the price paid for inflicting defeat on the Japanese navy and shooting down more than 360 enemy carrier planes.

Methodists at Lakeside Told of New Pastor Needs

(By Associated Press)
LAKESIDE, June 24.—Methodist seminaries are graduating only about one-half as many ministers as are needed annually, declares Dr. L. A. Welliver, president of the Westminster (Md.) Theological seminary.

"Although normal replacements of 700 ministers annually are needed for the Methodist church, its seminaries are graduating only 350 each year," Dr. Welliver yesterday told the Northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist church. "As a result, one of the greatest needs of the church today is more effective plans for the recruiting of outstanding young men for the ministry."

Following Dr. Welliver's address, presiding Bishop H. Lester Smith reported it now is possible for candidates for the ministry to register with the board of ministerial training and that such candidates now could be certified by the bishop and cabinet or the board.

as the only avowed major presidential candidate.

Landon insisted he had no personal interest in the matter, but he told a reporter he was satisfied Bricker had made more friends than almost any other campaigner in recent years. Landon openly is supporting Dewey for the presidential nomination.

Dewey took the attention away from what many called a middle of the road foreign policy declaration with a message yesterday to the platform committee accusing the Roosevelt administration of an abuse of power and proposing that the "next administration" overhaul the federal government.

The prospective foreign plank was up for final consideration before a resolutions subcommittee headed by Sen. Austin (R-Vt) today, with Austin's prediction that it would be adopted without material changes.

Sen. Brooks (R-Ill), a leader of so-called nationalists, has called it satisfactory and Austin said Sen. Ball (R-Minn), an exponent of broad measures of international collaboration, had telephoned his approval from Washington.

SOVIETS OPEN

The Nazi communications appeared to be outflanking Vitebsk so badly the big Nazi garrison has no railways into the city.

(The German radio said the Russians, using 11 divisions, have broken into German positions on both sides of Vitebsk, and that "heavy fighting goes on with the Russians attempting to encircle the town.")

Military observers here point out this probably is the first phase of Russia's summer offensive, recalling that last winter Stalin drove swift feints in several directions, then struck home with his main blows.

Soviet troops plunging nearly 10 miles through the German defense belt northwest and southeast of Vitebsk in White Russia inflicted enormous losses on the enemy, Moscow announced.

A broadcast Russian communique, detailing first gains in the new offensive that rounds out the United Nations strategy of hammering Hitler's Europe from the west, south and east, said yesterday's attacks cut the last railway line connecting German troops at Vitebsk with the rear.

Artillery and aircraft battered Nazi fortifications for several hours.
